ABSTRACT

The three important indicators of competitive dynamics, i.e.;

- Industry concentration
- Turbulence
- Performance spread

These indicators have demonstrated that organisations using IT to innovate have been able to win over competition, not so much because of the technology itself, but because technology has given them the tool to compete in the digital age. One of the most important aspects of technology in education is its ability to level the field of opportunity for students. Technology can be a powerful tool for transforming learning. It can help affirm and advance relationships between educators and students, reinvent our approaches to learning and collaboration, shrink long-standing equity and accessibility gaps, and adapt learning experiences to meet the needs of all learners. Our schools, community colleges, adult learning centers and universities should be incubators of exploration and invention. Educators should be collaborators in learning, seeking new knowledge and constantly acquiring new skills alongside their students. Education leaders should set a vision for creating learning experiences that provide the right tools and supports for all learners to thrive. However, to realize fully the benefits of technology in our education system and provide authentic learning experiences, educators need to use technology effectively in their practice which have been prominently been noticed in this pandemic. The members of the educational institutions need to augment their competencies and abilities that would enable them to carry out their tasks satisfactorily. The main concepts that have been taken into account in this research paper includes significance and meaning of innovation in education, benefits of innovation and educational technologies, barriers to innovation in education, and shaping of innovation by human capital. It is necessary to promote innovation and educational technology.

Introduction

“Engaging and Empowering Learning through Technology”

It is not easy to become famous household name, since not every startup can grab growth by the horn. It takes a brave and talented team to establish a company these days, especially when the failure rate after five years is over 50% and over 70% after the ten-year mark. However, an elite group of startups has managed to successfully navigate the challenges of the venture world and billion-dollar organizations — or as we like to call them, unicorns. And this mystical herd only continues to grow year after year.

To be successful in our daily lives and in a global workforce, Students need pathways to acquire expertise and form meaningful connections to peers and mentors. This journey begins with a base of knowledge and abilities that can be augmented and enhanced throughout our lives. Education stakeholders should commit to working together to use technology to improve education. These stakeholders include leaders, teachers, faculty, and other educators, researchers, policymakers, funders technology developers, community members and organizations, and learners and their families and of course, Ed-Tech Start-Ups. Implementing methods and strategies that would lead to progressions of the system of education is one of the important goals of individuals, particularly the ones, who are in leadership positions. In urban and rural communities, it is essential for the leaders to put into practice the approaches that would lead to up-gradation of the system of education.

information and telemedicine by all. According to ITU, an estimated 3.6 billion people remain offline, with the majority of the unconnected living in the least developed countries.

The response to the virus is also having a differentiated impact on segments of the population. The fact that women make up 70 per cent of the global health workforce puts them at greater risk of infection. Additionally, accompanying the crisis has been a spike in domestic violence reporting, at exactly the time that services, including rule of law, health and shelters, are being diverted to address the pandemic. With families isolated in their homes, children are also facing the rapid increase of online child abuse.

Conclusion: As major shifts unfold, education the world over faces considerable change, but many of the problems that have long blighted education systems stubbornly persist. Schools around the world continue to face deficiencies in resourcing, significant inequalities of educational opportunity, alongside poor-quality teaching, curriculum and school organisation. These are all issues that pre-date the first ‘computers in the classroom’ and the subsequent forays into ‘digital education’. Indeed, the simple goal of securing access to basic primary education for all children looks unlikely to be realised by 2030 (if ever at all). Such fundamental problems have haunted education for centuries and are likely to remain long beyond 2030 even though many of the ways education is organised may change. All told, these are worryingly familiar and unfamiliar times for everyone in education.

NATIONAL WEBINAR OUTLINE

Clean environment is a need and necessity of every human being in every society. Population growth, Poverty, unprecedented technological process, deforestation, excessive use of chemical fertilizers, insecticides and pesticides, increased unplanned urbanization, unguided and unregulated industrialization, over exploitation of natural resources, improper management of energy, heat and sound, discharge of pollutants into an atmosphere and like that have affected environment very badly. So many Laws have been enacted towards the protection of environment. But as per the experience of implementation of those laws it is observed that the laws are not implemented as expected by the Parliament. As a result, environment protection has been affected considerably. To work out a solution of this problem this webinar has been organized so that we can get some solution. All the delegates are requested to contribute to solve this problem.

Judicial activism in environment protection is a core theme of this webinar.

PURPOSE OF WEBINAR

Organization of National Webinar on Environment Protection is crucial as the protection, preservation, enhancement, and Improvement of environment is a need of an hour to achieve a goal of right to live with human dignity, Right to live in clean and healthy environment is enshrined under the Article 21 of the Constitution of India as a part and parcel of right to life through judicial activism. The protection of environment is required in all spheres of the life of Mankind to achieve sustainable development

Hence the organizing team was tempted to organize this webinar.

Theme: Patent and Law

Patents can provide great value and increased returns to individuals and companies on the investment made in developing new technology. Patenting should be done with an intelligent strategy that aligns business interests to implement the technology with a wide range of options in the search for how, where and when to patent.

This principal law for patenting system in India came into force in the year 1972. It replaced the Indian Patents and Designs Act 1911. The Act was amended by the Patents (Amendment) Act, 2005, wherein product patent was extended to all fields of technology including food, drugs, chemicals and microorganisms. After the amendment, the provisions relating to Exclusive Marketing Rights (EMRs) have been repealed, and a provision for enabling grant of compulsory license has been introduced. The provisions relating to pre-grant and post-grant opposition have also been introduced.

The workshop is organized with aim to highlight the legal framework and its impact on Indian legal systems.

 SEMINAR

"You have the power within you to make dreams true." -Will Harris

This seminar was created with the understanding that hard skills and soft skills are equally important for success in the world. hard skills get you hired.
 However, soft skills makes the difference in who is promoted and who is fired.

ABC's of success for students provide the soft skills needed to achieve success at every stage of life; starting from where the students are now and leading to achieving their goals post college.
